5. BEFORE YOU LEAVE HOME

After you have received an official confirmation of your enrollment at MGIMO, you will need to make a few necessary arrangements for your travel to Russia. Please, take some time to carefully study all the requirements and recommendations in this handbook. This will enable you to start off your studies smoothly and on time.

5.1. OBTAINING YOUR STUDENT VISA

5.1.1. GENERAL INFORMATION

Although Russia maintains a visa-free regime with some countries, a visa is a compulsory requirement for the citizens of many foreign countries. Please, consult the website of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of your country and of the Russian Embassy / Consulate in your region to ascertain whether you require a visa to enter Russia. If you do, MGIMO International Office will provide you with the necessary supporting documents so that you can apply for it.

According to the regulations of the Russian Foreign Ministry, to obtain a student visa, your passport should be valid for no less than 1 year after the expiry of your visa.

The academic year at MGIMO starts on 1st September. The invitation from MGIMO which you will use to obtain your visa normally states that you should come to Russia a week before your studies start. We expect you to arrive a few days before the onset of the term so that you have ample time to settle in.
5.1.2. HOW TO APPLY FOR YOUR VISA

To obtain a visa via MGIMO is easy. You should contact the International Office (IO), fill out an MGIMO visa application form and send to IO a digital copy of the pages of your passport containing your personal data (passport number, expiration date, etc.). This copy should be legible and the photograph should be clearly visible.

After your visa application is approved you will receive an e-mail from IO with the reference number of your electronic invitation and the dates of your visa. The Russian consulate where you apply for your visa will already have this number. Once it has been communicated to you, contact the Russian consulate in the city you indicated in your MGIMO application form and fulfill the required procedures. You will not need any invitation letters or other supporting documents to collect the Russian visa.

If you face any problems while sorting out your visa, please, contact the International Office right away so that we can help you get the process back on track without further delay. Incorrectly completed application forms and illegible passport details are the most common causes of delays in granting visas.

Please, note that you cannot come to Moscow before the date shown on your visa. When applying in your home country, you will receive a single entry visa valid for 90 days. Upon arrival in Russia, the International Office team will assist you in getting a multiple entry visa for the entire academic year without having to leave the country.
5.1.3. SUPPORTING DOCUMENTS

List of documents (originals) you must have when you arrive at MGIMO:

1. Document supporting your identity and proving your nationality (the original and its certified copy in Russian).

2. Diploma with the list of subjects studied and corresponding grades (the original and its certified copy in Russian).

3. Medical certificate indicating you do not suffer from chronic diseases, certificate of the established form confirming you are HIV-negative, your results of WR (Wassermann reaction) and hepatitis B tests and a medical report that you are up to date on your vaccinations (tetanus, measles, diphtheria, tuberculosis), stamped by a medical institution with the date of vaccination stated, and chest X-ray (PPD Skin Test or Quantiferon Blood Test) results.

5. Health insurance valid in Russia.

6. Eight photos, 3 x 4 cm, matt.
5.1.4. IMMIGRATION PROCEDURES

Relevant question: Why do I need to fill out a migration card?

When you pass through immigration control in Russia, you will need to present your passport with a valid visa. A passport control officer will have you sign a migration card filled in automatically.

Please, read the card carefully. In the field “Purpose of your entry” the word "Studies" should appear. Please, retain the migration card during the whole duration of your stay in Russia.

You are also required to provide a copy of the migration card to MGIMO International Office, so that we can proceed with your official registration in the country.

The migration card is to be returned to passport control as soon as you leave Russia and you will need to fill out a new one each time you come.

It is highly recommended that you carry the copies of all your documents with you at all times while in Russia.

Please, remember that you have to re-register (on the next working day) every time you leave the Russian Federation and Moscow and then re-enter.

IMPORTANT: DOCUMENTS FOR VISA EXTENSION MUST BE SUBMITTED 45 CALENDAR DAYS BEFORE IT EXPIRES.
5.1.5. MEDICAL INSURANCE

IMPORTANT: All foreign nationals who come to study at MGIMO are required to take out health coverage within one month of the date they are enrolled. We urge you to purchase a comprehensive medical insurance policy with dental care included.

In Russia, foreign citizens can take out what is called a “voluntary health insurance” from one of a range of private companies on the market. You can organize it yourself by selecting a company accredited in the Russian Federation.

Alternatively, you can choose to purchase your medical insurance at MGIMO once you have arrived. MGIMO has agreements with several health clinics, among which you can select a program and benefit from preferential rates and terms. The University also has its own clinic which provides basic medical services.
5.1.6. LEGALISING AND NOTARISING DOCUMENTS

IMPORTANT: The diploma recognition procedure is not necessary for citizens of countries which have signed treaties with the Russian Federation on the equivalence of diplomas. Please, keep in mind that even if such a treaty exists between Russia and the country that issued your school certificate, additional conditions could still be stipulated under various treaties.

Upon arrival at MGIMO, you must hand over to the International Office the legalized (apostilled) original of your secondary school or Bachelor’s diploma and its translation into Russian certified by a Russian public notary or the Consulate of the Russian Federation in the country where the document was issued. As a rule, these documents are presented to the International Office at the admissions stage, but if this has not been done, you are to bring us these documents upon arrival.

In accordance with the legislation of Russia, you need to perform a procedure to confirm compliance of your international diplomas with the requirements of the Russian Federation. This can be done at MGIMO. The documents which you need to submit are as follows:

a) the original diploma or any other proof of a student’s qualifications with annexes (if applicable);

b) a certified copy and translation into Russian (if the document is in a foreign language) of the diploma with the translator’s signature along with his/her contact information; the copy is to be verified by the notary officer or any other individual with similar rights;

c) a document proving the identity of the diploma holder and its photocopy (if applied in person);

d) a power of attorney drawn up in both English and Russian (if submitted not by the holder of the diploma or his legal representative).
5.2. USEFUL TIPS

5.2.1. CLIMATE

Stereotypes generally tend to blow out of proportion the harshness of the Russian climate. Nonetheless, it is worth remembering that Russia is a northern country and in wintertime while the temperature averages at -10°C, it may drop down to -20°C (-30°C exceptionally) and remain low for weeks. The summer, on the other hand, is bright and some days can get particularly hot.

5.2.2. SAFETY

Moscow is a very large and relatively safe metropolitan city. There are certain “dodgy” areas that we recommend you not walk through on your own at night, as in the case with most other major European capitals, but, generally speaking, most of the city is fairly safe and the crime rate is quite low. We ask MGIMO students to observe basic safety rules in order to avoid putting themselves at risk.

If you find yourself in a difficult situation, please, contact the International Office immediately or, in case of an emergency, dial 112 from your mobile phone to reach the Moscow emergency services.
5.2.3. TIME ZONE
Russia has 11 time zones. Moscow time is used as a reference point for all the other time zones in Russia. Moscow time is GMT +3.

5.2.4. MONEY
Russia’s currency is rouble (RUB) (divided into 100 kopecks). There are many banks and exchange offices in Moscow, including a bank outlet in MGIMO, where you can exchange foreign currencies for roubles.

While some banks do exchange various foreign currencies for roubles; euros and dollars tend to be the easiest to convert. In recent years, there has been a lot of fluctuation in the exchange rate of the rouble against the euro and the dollar, sometimes on a daily basis, so we strongly recommend that you check the exchange rate on the official website of the Central Bank of Russia before you set out to change money cbr.ru.

Exchanging money at the airport is not a good idea as the exchange rate may not be advantageous. Never accept a private individual’s offer to exchange money.

We suggest that you acquire some roubles when you are still at home for small expenses you will encounter upon your arrival in Moscow, for example, buying a ticket for a fast train and a subway ticket, etc.

In Russia, credit and debit cards are widely accepted in large shops, supermarkets and boutiques in the city centre. However, some small stores and shops far from the center accept only cash, so carry a small amount with you at all times.
5.2.5. COMMUNICATIONS

In Moscow there are four main cellular operators: MTS [mts.ru], Beeline [beeline.ru], Megafon [megafon.ru], and Tele 2 [tele2.ru].

They operate 3G and 4G (LTE) networks in Moscow and the provinces.

The main retailers for mobile phones, SIM-cards and accessories are Euroset [euroset.ru], Svyaznoy [svyaznoy.ru], and Know-how [i-on.ru].

SIM-cards can be purchased in big stores but also in small shops near subway stations, etc. Do not buy SIM-cards from non-official street sellers.

If you use your Moscow SIM-card in other Russian regions, roaming tariffs for calls, text messages and Internet surfing may apply. For more details, please, visit the operators’ websites.

For cheap (or free) calls home we advise you to use Skype, Viber software or purchase packages from companies such as, for example, E1 [e1tele.com].

5.2.6. INTERNET

Moscow is a modern city and wireless network is available in most public places: cafes, restaurants, in the subway and on public transport. To use the Wi-Fi in the subway you must register on the network.

Moscow is also actively working towards providing complimentary Wi-Fi in major parks and recreation areas, such as the Gorky Park which is already equipped with it.

Free Wi-Fi is available at MGIMO student accommodation facilities and anywhere on campus.

5.2.7. PLUGS AND SOCKETS

Electricity throughout Russia is 220 volt/50 Hz. Standard European thin two-pin plugs are used in Russia. If necessary, it is best to bring with you an adaptor for your laptop and other electronic devices.
6. GETTING TO MGIMO

6.1. MOSCOW AIRPORTS

Moscow is one of the biggest cities in Europe and is at a crossroads between Europe and Asia. It has three airports: Sheremetyevo, Domodedovo and Vnukovo, so you are recommended to double-check before you leave, where precisely you will be landing.

Sheremetyevo Airport, located 29 km northwest of central Moscow, is Russia’s largest and busiest international airport. It has four operating passenger terminals and one special terminal reserved for the use of private and business aviation. The airport’s terminals are divided into two groups based on geographical location: the north and south terminal areas. The two terminal areas are linked by regular internal and external bus services. Aeroflot, the national Russian carrier, and other SkyTeam alliance members use Sheremetyevo as the principal hub for their passenger flights.

- It takes just over one hour to reach the city centre or MGIMO campus from Sheremetyevo by car. You can also take Aeroexpress trains from Sheremetyevo to Belorusssky railway terminal.

For further information go to: svo.aero/en/.
Domodedovo Airport, located 42 km south-southeast from the centre of Moscow, is Russia’s second busiest airport. It has one terminal building comprising two separate concourses for domestic (and some former Soviet republic countries) and international flights, respectively.

- It takes about one hour or slightly more to reach the city centre or the MGIMO campus by car from the airport. You can also get on Aeroexpress trains from Domodedovo to Paveletsky railway terminal.

For further information go to: dme.ru/images/info/english.htm.

Vnukovo Airport, located 28 km southwest from the centre of Moscow, is Moscow’s third busiest airport. Vnukovo is Moscow’s oldest operating airport. It was opened in 1941. During the Great Patriotic War, it was used as a military airbase; passenger services started after the war. The airport has two passenger terminals (Terminal A and Terminal B), one general aviation terminal (for charter and business flights), one cargo terminal, and 60 aircraft stands.

Of the three Moscow airports, Vnukovo is the highest (204 m above sea level). Hence, in case of fog, it has frequently served as an alternative airport.

Vnukovo Airport is equipped with the government VIP transport wing which operates head-of-state flights for many political leaders and high-ranking officials visiting Russia. The Russian President also uses Vnukovo’s VIP facility.

- This airport is the closest to MGIMO campus, and can be reached within 30-40 min. by car. You can also take Aeroexpress trains from Vnukovo to Kievsky railway terminal.

For further information go to: vnukovo.ru/en/.

All three airports are located at a certain distance from downtown Moscow. However, it is possible to get into town within about 45 min. by public transport.

You can get from the airport to your destination by:
- Aeroexpress and Metro
- Taxi
- Car (if someone comes to pick you up)

6.4. THE MOSCOW METRO

The Moscow Metro is a rapid transit system serving Moscow and such neighbouring towns of the Moscow region as Krasnogorsk, Reutov, Lyubertsy, and Kotelniki. Opened in 1935 with one 11-kilometre (6.8 mi) line and 13 stations, it was the first underground railway system in the Soviet Union. As of 2018, the Moscow Metro excluding the Moscow Central Circle and Moscow Monorail has 224 stations (255 with Moscow Central Circle). It’s the busiest metro system in Europe, and a tourist attraction in itself.

The entrance to the Metro is immediately obvious thanks to a red letter М. Every metro station has a ticket office and self-service machines where you can purchase tickets to travel. Free Wi-Fi is available on all lines of the Moscow Metro.

Public Transport Ticket Types

As part of its wide-ranging public transport modernization program, the Moscow City Government offers new ticket options.

All-in-One ticket (in Russian Cyrillic yediniy bilet) – a ticket valid for one or more rides by Metro or any other means of ground level transport. There are All-in-One tickets with and without a limit of rides.

You may select one of the three modern ticket options to suit your purpose, or purchase the newest Troika card.

- 90-minute Ticket (in Russian Cyrillic bilet devianosto minut) – a ticket valid for one ride by Metro and unlimited number of connections by land transport within a 90-min period.
- Trolleybus-Bus-Tram (or use the Russian acronym TAT which stands for trolleybus – avtobus – tramvay) – a ticket for all forms of surface transport. Note, this does not include marshrutka (minibus) or elektrichka (suburban electric train).
- Troika card is an electronic transportation card that allows you to top-up the balance, add tickets for all means of city transport and a season pass for commuting trains.

We recommend that you buy a regular ticket for a 90 min. trip, which will also allow you to use the bus, tramway car or trolleybus within 90 min. A single one-trip ticket will cost you 55 RUB (less than 1 USD or 1 EUR), but you will have to purchase another one upon getting on a bus, tramway car or trolleybus (in a box office nearby the stops or directly from the driver) which will cost you another 50 RUB.

At a later stage, you can buy travel cards for students at reduced rates and with no limit for a number of trips taken (for one month – 395 RUB, for three months – 1185 RUB).

6.5. TO MGIMO BY METRO

MGIMO is conveniently situated between the two subway stations (called Prospekt Vernadskogo and Yugo-Zapadnaya) on the red Sokolnicheskaya line. It will take you on average 30 min. to make it to Prospekt Vernadskogo from any station you will end up at if you take an Aeroexpress train.

From the Belorussky railway terminal, you should get onto the belt line at Belorusskaya metro station and get off at Park Kultury station. You then need to change over to the Sokolnicheskaya line and ride down to the station Prospekt Vernadskogo or Yugo-Zapadnaya.

If you arrive at the Kievsky railway terminal, you should get onto the belt line at the station Kievskaya and get off at the station Park Kultury. You then make your way to the Sokolnicheskaya line and ride straight down to the station Prospekt Vernadskogo or Yugo-Zapadnaya.

Upon arrival at Paveletskaya station, walk to the Paveletskaya station on the belt line, head underground to the Sokolnicheskaya line and then board a southbound train and alight at Prospekt Vernadskogo or Yugo-Zapadnaya.

Please, note that all the stations on the belt line carry the same names as their corresponding stations on the radial lines. Stations on other lines have different names even if they are close by.

We suggest you study your route before departure by using the Yandex interactive map metro.yandex.ru/moscow.
6.6. FINDING YOUR WAY FROM THE METRO STATION TO MGIMO

Once you have made it to the station Prospekt Vernadskogo, you have nearly reached your destination! You just need to catch a bus to MGIMO campus.

When you arrive at Prospekt Vernadskogo station, walk down the platform towards the first carriage of the train you have just got off. Then go up the stairs and walk through the glass doors and turn left, then take the first right up the stairs. Thus you will come to the bus stop.

There are several different buses taking you to MGIMO: No 715, 793, 616, 810 or 830. You can get straight on, if you previously purchased yediniy bilet when going down the Metro. If you did not, you can buy a ticket at the ticket kiosk or from the driver. You board the bus through the front door; if there is a queue, make sure you stand at the end of it. It is very badly viewed to not wait your turn and push your way to the front.

As you get on the bus, you tap your ticket on an automatic portal and walk through it by pushing the bar in front of you.

You then need to get off the bus at the station called "MGIMO". You will see the central building of the University campus, with steps leading up to the main entrance hall. To cross the road you may use the underpass. When facing the University, to the right of the main entrance there is a high-rise building. This is your student accommodation, if you live on campus.

You can also walk from the station Prospekt Vernadskogo all the way up to MGIMO but it will take you 15-20 min. and is most likely not the best option as you will have luggage to drag along.
6.7. TAXI

Taxi service market in Moscow has changed dramatically over the recent years. New technology and service platforms such as Yandex.Taxi, Uber and Gett (ex-GetTaxi) displace many private drivers and small service providers.

A taxi can be called using a smartphone, tablet or PC in 5-15 min. Commercial taxi services are available. In addition, route taxis are in widespread use.

In all three airports, at Arrivals, there are stands where official taxi companies offer their services. Only these companies, which expect you to walk up to their stand, are licensed taxi companies. The staff behind the counters will take down your order, process your payment and direct you to the driver who will take you to your destination. The prices are fixed, regardless of the time spent on the go.

We recommend that you find out how much your journey will cost you before you leave home. As a rule, the price depends on the mileage. Your trip to MGIMO should cost around 2,000 RUB (about 30 USD or 27 EUR).

WARNING: If anyone hails you upon arrival, offering you taxi services at a "reduced rate", they do not work for an official company and we strongly recommend you avoid them, as their prices are always higher than expected and change during the course of the journey. Besides, riding with an unofficial taxi driver is not safe!
7. NECESSARY FORMALITIES AND ARRANGEMENTS UPON YOUR ARRIVAL AT MGIMO

 Shortly after you have arrived at MGIMO and before you start your studies, you must comply with some administrative formalities.

IMPORTANT: Remember to inform in advance your program coordinator at the International Office about the date and estimated time of your arrival at MGIMO.

7.1. SETTLING INTO THE STUDENT ACCOMMODATION

IMPORTANT: Upon your arrival at MGIMO, please, go to the Department responsible for student accommodation to fill out the necessary documents and sign a contract for your lodging.

Please, let the International Office know in good time when you plan to arrive, so that the dormitory staff is expecting you on that date. Upon arrival in Moscow, please, go first to your dormitory to drop off your suitcase. Get your passport ready and produce it at the reception. You will be let through the security gates and taken to meet the Dormitory Director, who will take down your details, hand you the keys to your room and show you round the premises.

The student accommodation which is located on campus (also called Dormitory No 2, in Russian obschezhitie) is to the right of MGIMO’s main entrance. You walk alongside the building until you come across a tall white stone structure. It is easy to spot as there are no other stand-alone relatively high-rise buildings next to MGIMO. To locate your whereabouts, you can use the links: mgimo.ru/territory/, mgimo.ru/territory/campus/.

You can move in and keep your room until the end of June when your exams period and the academic year have drawn to a close.
7.2. REGISTERING WITH THE INTERNATIONAL OFFICE

As soon as you have left your belongings in the dormitory, you must come to the International Office to register your arrival at MGIMO and contact your program coordinator.

MGIMO has a number of access points, but the first time you are to enter it you will need to use the main entrance of the Main building. The University has a security system in place and students get in using their digital entry passes and student ID cards. The first time you come in, please, present your passport to security to get your name ticked on the list. Later on, you will have a permanent electronic pass which will enable you to access the building through any point of entry.

Then come to the International Office: we will be expecting you. To find our office, turn left when you enter through main entrance and walk down the corridor. The team from the International Office will inform you about your next steps. Our office hours are Monday to Friday from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m.
7.3. REGISTERING WITH THE FEDERAL MIGRATION SERVICES

Relevant question: Why is registering with the Federal Migration Services so important?

Registering is a compulsory migration procedure for foreign citizens in Russia. It should be done as soon as possible after arrival.

The migration card you have filled out when you formally entered Russia is necessary for registering.

Your registration must be fully processed within 7 working days since your arrival in the country. Therefore, the day you arrive at MGIMO or the following day at the latest, you need to bring to the International Office a copy of your migration card, of your passport and visa (if applicable). Next, the staff of the International Office will help you fill in the registration forms.

You can find out more about the migration rules for foreign students and the registration process by reading the migration memo put at your disposal at MGIMO’s International Office.

IMPORTANT: You should have with you at all times the registration documents which were processed for you by the International Office staff. We recommend that you keep them attached to your passport with your migration card or preserve them in a special file.

Every time you leave and re-enter Russia, you will have to go through the process of registration once again.

If your registration is about to expire, you must have the staff of the International Office extend it.

If you travel within Russia, you have to register again each time you stay somewhere new. Hotels usually perform registration for foreign guests staying with them.

When you leave Russia, your registration will be checked by border officials at Passport Control.
If you fail to comply with temporary registration, or have not renewed your registration in time, you will face severe penalties. In addition, MGIMO will have to pay a large fine.

Cases of repeated violation of the registration terms are punishable with sizeable fines and can result in deportation and entry bans for a period of 2 to 5 years. Therefore, we ask you to strictly abide by the registration rules.

7.4. IMMIGRATION REGULATIONS

Please, review the list of documents which must be submitted to the International Office for migration registration.

For countries which enjoy a visa-free regime with Russia:
- Passport
- Photocopy of the pages of your passport containing personal data and the validity period of the passport
- Migration card – original and one photocopy

For countries with which Russia has a visa regime:

You will receive your classes schedule at the beginning of each semester. A reliable way to keep yourself updated with the latest changes in your timetable is to check it online on the MGIMO website mgimo.ru/study/schedule/ or to see the paper version hanging on the stand by the Dean’s office.

Your coordinator will help you understand the system during your first days at the University.

Attendance is strictly compulsory in higher education establishments in Russia and this applies equally to both lectures and seminars. Please, make sure you attend all classes. If you miss more than 30 academic hours (30 academic hours are equal to 15 classes) and fail to provide a valid excuse, you will be expelled.
9.3. THE STUDENTS’ ACADEMIC RATING SYSTEM

Since 2003, the academic rating of students has been firmly embedded in the structure of MGIMO’s educational system.

The system of students’ academic ranking is seen as an effective tool to enhance the quality of the educational process – the teaching process as well as the system to correctly assess students’ knowledge and encourage students to become independent learners and thinkers.

One of the indicators of the education quality is its efficiency in fulfilling the state’s requirements to have highly qualified specialists in demand in modern professional environment.

The academic ranking system which is in operation at MGIMO is a complex mechanism that allows to effectively implement the competence approach to be applied in educational institutions.

9.3.1. THE FORMATION OF A STUDENT’S RATING INDEX

The essential thing to define a student’s rating is integral rating indicators.

- Integral rating indicators are formed on the basis of the assessment of a student’s study progress in the disciplines to be studied during the semester: – the intermediate evaluation of study progress (Block 1); – the passes (in Russian Cyrillic zachet) and exams (Block 2); – the assessment of a student’s social characteristics (Block 3).

- The rating indicators for each discipline studied during the semester form the final rating index for the semester and the average rating index achieved by the student for all years of study at the University and all other rating indicators.

- The maximum result that can be achieved by a student for each of the blocks of the rating evaluation is 100%.

A. The System of Mid-term Passes – the Intermediate Evaluation of Study Progress

- Evaluation of a student’s study progress throughout the semester is executed by the leading lecturer in accordance with his/her own system of control over the process of covering various sections of the course studied. The control system can combine both written and oral, group and individual forms.

- Throughout the semester, the lecturer should hold at least 3 control checks of a student’s study progress.
For the disciplines to be studied during the whole semester, the following control dates are set: 6\textsuperscript{th}, 12\textsuperscript{th} and 15\textsuperscript{th}-16\textsuperscript{th} weeks of the semester.

<tr>
<th>Semester</th>
<th>Fall Semester</th>
<th>Spring Semester</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1\textsuperscript{st} mid-term pass</td>
<td>15\textsuperscript{th} October</td>
<td>15\textsuperscript{th} March</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2\textsuperscript{nd} mid-term pass</td>
<td>20\textsuperscript{th} November</td>
<td>20\textsuperscript{th} April</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3\textsuperscript{rd} mid-term pass</td>
<td>15\textsuperscript{th} December</td>
<td>15\textsuperscript{th} May</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The final grade for Block 1 is calculated as the arithmetic average mean of all grades to be acquired by a student within the semester at the weeks of intermediate knowledge check.

\text{Final Grade} = \frac{\text{Mid-term Pass 1} + \text{Mid-term Pass 2} + \text{Mid-term Pass 3}}{3}

B. The Passes and Exams in Session Periods

The rating indicator for Block 2 is the grade received by a student at an exam or a pass and is estimated in % and backed up with two other alternative scores in accordance with the 5-point rating grade and European grade systems.

The final grade of the pass (not of the exam) for a particular course covered by a student is shaped considering a student’s study progress to be achieved for the given course during the semester.

An automatic pass for the course is provided in case a student’s final grade for the course in the semester (based on the results of the intermediate study performance evaluation) is above or equal to 70%.

The final grade securing the automatic pass is fully equivalent to the arithmetic average mean estimated for a course to be covered in the semester.

Students whose ratings are below 70% are to take a traditional pass. In that case the final grades received by these students cannot exceed 70%.

This rule is not applicable to the final grade for the exam.

In case a student at the exam or pass receives a grade under 60% which corresponds to his/her real knowledge, this rating grade is displayed in the academic record.

In case of re-taking an exam or a pass, the following rule is used to calculate the final grade:
- in case of first re-taking an exam or a pass, the current grade a student obtains for his/her answer is to be reduced by 10%;
- in case of second (and last) re-taking an exam or a pass, the current grade a student obtains for his/her answer is to be reduced by 20%.
C. The Assessment of a Student's Social Characteristics

Evaluation of the social characteristics of a student is considered as an integral part of the educational process and is conducted to increase the responsibility and self-discipline of students, their motivation for profound and comprehensive mastering of knowledge as well as developing their skills of systematic work.

The assessment of social characteristics of the student is originated from the combination of the following parameters with a 5-point grade to be attached to each of them where 5 is a max grade and 0 is a min grade:

- attendance;
- involvement and participation in classroom’s activities;
- diligence;
- home assignments to be done properly and handed in on time;
- respectful and correct communication with a lecturer;
- general erudition.

The assessment of personal social characteristics of students is carried out by the teaching staff once at the end of the semester.

LANGUAGE SOIREES
There is a special sense of unity between MGIMO students who learn the same languages. These evenings bring together students, alumni, professors, and employees of Embassies.

MGIMO MUSIC AWARDS
A competition of MGIMO singers usually takes place in April or May. To get to the final show you should undergo two casting sessions and shoot a video about yourself.

THEATRICAL PERFORMANCES
The Theatre Studio is engaged in classic and contemporary drama productions performed by students. Foreign language departments also do their own short presentations in different languages. MGIMO Spanish, English and German cultural soirees are amongst the most renowned. All students can watch or participate in the dramatized programmes.

SPRING AND AUTUMN BALLS

University students from across Moscow take part in dazzling classic and modern dancing events. Everyone is welcome to prove himself in the events, even if he or she has never danced before. Participants can attend dance classes from the beginning of the study year and then display their skills at the balls.

KVN

A competition for those who enjoy comedy. The abbreviation KVN in Russian stands for "Club of the Merry and the Quick-Witted". KVN games are very famous in Russia, they are broadcast on TV and played all over the country at schools and universities. KVN is a team game, and it does not matter how many people are in your team, as the sole objective is to make the audience laugh. To reach the final KVN game, you should win several pre-final games.

MISS MGIMO CONTEST

This contest has become a tradition and allows young women studying at the University to show their individuality, intelligence, and charm.
9.6. DRESS-CODE

MGIMO is a university with an elitist tradition, which trains the future political elite of Russia and many other countries. The level of education and the diplomatic status of the University require a specific dress-code to be respected in the University by professors and students alike.

The dress-code may vary depending on the timetable, and some classes may require formal attire. Shorts and flip-flops are prohibited in the University at all times.

On official occasions, for example, at meetings with visiting guests of the University, we recommend you to wear a suit, a shirt or blouse and appropriate footwear.

Do bear in mind that the University has a gym and swimming pool and you will need sportswear and trainers to work out. Sports clothes are sold at the shop by MGIMO’s swimming pool and in a multitude of shops around Moscow as well.
10. AROUND MGIMO

10.3. BANKS AND ATMS

The official currency of Russia is rouble and this has long been no formality. By all means, it cannot be ruled out that, in some antique shop in the Arbat, they will happily accept your dollars or euros. However, generally, you will not be able to buy anything in Moscow with foreign cash.

In the city center there are hundreds of currency exchange kiosks to be found at every turn, bank branches and ATM machines, which are usually located in the outlets of various banks, where you can send and receive money transfers, buy currency or withdraw cash.

Never approach exchange points that are not affiliated to any bank. They usually offer more appealing rates but also present a greater risk of forgery, so we recommend that you exchange currency only in official banks.

VISA and MasterCard cards are accepted virtually everywhere and soon, according to the Moscow authorities, there will be no shop or café where you would not be able to pay by card. Moscow open markets are the places where they accept both cards and cash.

As in many other countries, VAT (value added tax) is applied to almost all payments and purchases on the territory of the Russian Federation. In Russia VAT is 18% and can only be refunded to foreign tourists coming to Russia for short stays.

You can check the official currency rates at the website of the Russian Central Bank cbr.ru.

Next to Prospekt Vernandskogo metro station, you can stop for a drink or snack at London Pub, Krujka Pub, Coffee House and Shokoladnitsa (a café with good coffee and snacks).

Tipping is a common practice in Russian cafés, restaurants and other public places and shows that you have enjoyed the service. The average tip is 10% of your bill. Leaving tips, however, is not compulsory. Please, note that no tips are needed on campus.

All the cafés mentioned have stores around Moscow and they offer everything from a drink or snack to a full dinner at an affordable price.

One can find everything needed in Perekryostok (a food retail chain) in shopping center Avenue South-West nearby Yugo-Zapadnaya metro station. Perekryostok (in Russian crossroads) is renowned for its own bakery, a huge assortment of ready-made salads and cooked dishes.

13. OTHER INFORMATION

13.1. CUSTOMS AND TRADITIONS

- Moscow is a modern secular European city, where no strict rules of public behavior apply. However, Muscovites are somewhat conservative and demonstrating passionately one’s political or religious beliefs or sexual identity in public could be taken by others with disapproval. In Moscow, it is prohibited to consume alcoholic drinks in public. Police are strictly monitoring abuses and no paper packs would pass for a camouflage of a bottle.

- Smoking is prohibited near and inside metro stations, schools, hospitals, at stadiums and in any premises, apart from one’s own apartment. Smoking is also prohibited in cafés and restaurants.

- Russians have two pronouns to address people: Ты (Ти) and Вы (Ви). In English both of them are translated as “You”. But in Russia it makes a difference which pronoun you use. “Ты” is reserved for a friend or a kid. It is also alright to address an unknown young person with “ты”, e.g., if you are both students. A person who is much older, even if you have never met before, may address you with “ты” – age has its privileges. However, this does not mean you can answer them with “ты”. It is best to start off with “Вы”, especially if you want to be polite and do not know a person. At a later stage, one of you can offer to “shift to ‘ти’” – ”перейти на ты”.

- Russians dress up to go out more often than foreigners do. Even getting ready to go for a casual walk, a Russian woman may wear high heels and a nice dress, and a man may wear a shirt. Foreigners run the risk of being dressed too informally for the occasion, whatever it may be. So if you are invited to a dinner party, to the theater or a restaurant, even if you think the event is informal, it is a good idea to check up on the dress code required.

- Russians just love to entertain guests and are really great hosts. Russians like visiting each other, meeting up with friends for dinner, or just stopping by to catch up on the latest news. The latter is called ”to drop in for a cup of coffee”. It is very uncommon to leave guests without a treat. You will always be offered something to eat or drink when visiting Russians in their homes. It is also considered to be good manners to bring something with you, when you pay a visit to someone. Russians even have an expression ”прийти с пустыми руками” that literally... means “to come empty-handed”. You do not have to buy expensive gifts when you are a guest. A box of chocolates or a bottle of fine wine both make adequate gifts. If you are visiting a family with children make sure to bring a treat for the kids: sweets, chocolate or some fruit will do just great. Theme parties are quickly gaining popularity among young Russians. A group of friends may choose to fix a sushi night, a pajama party or meet up for beers.

Russians always take off their outdoor shoes when they get home. The host usually offers a pair of slippers (in Russian тапочки). In some cases, for example if you are invited to a party, you can bring a pair of clean shoes to wear inside. Russian students often bring a change of shoes to university, especially in winter.

Russians do not go Dutch. Here is where Russians differ strikingly from Europeans. So, if you ask a lady out (it does not matter whether it is a date or you just decide to drink coffee while walking around the city) do not expect her to pay for herself, not at a restaurant or anywhere else.

Russians believe that men should help women who are carrying heavy things, as men are stronger than women. If you do not lend a helping hand you will be considered impolite. Sometimes men help even unknown women if they notice they are struggling with weighty bags.

In Russia people offer a seat to the elderly and pregnant women in public transport. Sometimes women, even (or especially) young ones, are offered seats on public transportation. Getting up and offering a seat to the elderly is compulsory. There are special seats for the aged, pregnant women and people with children in public transport, but you still ought to give up your seat if they are standing by you.

Russians like to serve a festive dinner to guests on occasions such as birthdays, the New Year and Easter. These dinners include hot dishes, a selection of cold appetizers and salads, and cake for dessert. Russian housewives prefer to cook everything themselves. Alcohol also has its importance in a holiday dinner. Russians usually put all alcoholic beverages on the table at once so that guests may pick their favorites themselves, rather than bringing out the wine during the main course and the spirits at dessert, for example.
Russia has its own ideas about how and what to eat. Russian people like to eat home-cooked foods and usually eat three times a day. The three meals of the day in Russia are called zavtrak, obed and uzhin. With the exception of zavtrak (breakfast), there are no exact English translations for these daily meals. For example, the second meal, obed, is served around 2 p.m. and can be called either “lunch” or “dinner” in English. The third meal, uzhin, is served after 6 p.m. and can be called either “dinner” or “supper”.

It is very common for Russian families to have kasha for breakfast (a type of porridge made from different grains), butterbrots (a sandwich made with a single slice of bread and a topping such as butter, cheese, or ham), hard- or soft-boiled or fried eggs, tvorog (similar to cottage cheese) or cereal for breakfast. Russians drink a lot of tea and coffee.
13.3. RUSSIAN SOUVENIRS AND SYMBOLS

One of the most popular symbols of Russia is undoubtedly a traditional Russian _matryoshka doll_. These finely decorated wooden dolls “with a secret” are often called “babushka dolls” by foreigners, but it is incorrect. Tourists are very fond of taking matryoshkas back home with them after a trip to Russia.

__Banya__ (a Russian type of sauna, a kind of a steam room) is one of the oldest Russian traditions. It remains popular to this day. You can find banyas in large cities and small towns. Usually those Russians who have summer houses (or dachas), also have their own banya there.

A _samovar_ is a device traditionally used to heat and boil water for tea. The name can be loosely translated into English as a “self-boiler or kettle”. Drinking tea is an inalienable part of Russian culture. In modern Russia, samovars are not used to boil water for tea as originally intended. In fact, they are sold in shops for decorative purposes so that some families can use them during holidays as a tribute to ancestors and traditions.

What other souvenirs can you bring back from Russia?
Alongside samovars and matreshkas, Russia is famous for different authentic crafts like _gzhel_ or _khokhloma_ _paintings_. Tourists also like to bring _valenki_ (winter felt boots) and _ushanka_ (a winter hat). You can find souvenirs shops in touristic parts of Moscow such as Old Arbat Street and the Red Square.
